Student: 'I'm so glad I stuck with it'

Maddie Weed has become a talented pianist, but when she first enrolled in music lessons, she had her sights set on drums.

Her uncle is a drummer, and that influenced her interest, but her mom said she wanted Weed to learn treble clef and bass clef on piano first.

"Then I actually started falling in love with the piano," Weed said, "and now I can't stop doing it."

Weed, now 12, started piano lessons five years ago at the Wichita Music Academy. She added bass guitar lessons two years ago.

Weed's favorite song she has learned to play on piano is Pachelbel's Canon in C.

"My goal right now is to finish all the books," she said of her curriculum. "I really like the book I'm on right now because I get to play really fast. If I start something, I want to finish it."

Weed said she clicked well with Wichita Music Academy instructor Andrew Wingert.

"I love working with Andrew," she remarked. "I feel like he fits my personality. I like how Andrew does it because he's so into it. It's just really exciting to go to piano."

Weed is equally excited about her second instrument.

"The bass guitar is awesome. I love it!" she said.

Weed was matched with Wichita Music Academy instructor Toby Lind, who happened to be her older cousin.

"I feel like he knows me more," Weed said. "He'll bring up something from when I was younger. It's really fun working with a relative."

Weed admitted that her parents were hesitant to allow her to take guitar lessons from her cousin. She promised them that she and Lind would work hard on bass guitar, not just joke around and waste time during lessons.

When she started bass guitar lessons, she had already learned the importance of working on her music regularly. She identified that as the most important advice she would give a new student.

"Make sure you stick with it," Weed said. "There were multiple times where I didn't want to practice piano. I would ask my mom, 'Can I just go to lessons and not practice?'

"There's always a stage – 'I don't want to do this anymore," she added. "But you have to keep going and stick with it."

Weed, whose other passion is playing soccer, was excited to earn her five-year Prima trophy and wristband through the Musical Ladder System at the Wichita Music Academy. The program affords students the opportunity to earn certificates, trophies and wristbands for achieving musical milestones.

"I really like it because it sets a goal for me," she said. "I want to have a trophy that's as tall as me. It's really exciting when you get a trophy. It's awesome!"

Weed plays her instruments every day. She's come a long way since the days when her mother would threaten to withhold dessert if Weed didn't practice her music.

"She was correct, of course," Weed said, smiling as she reminisced. "I'm so glad I stuck with it."

Maddie stands with the Prima trophy she earned for five years of lessons.
